WILL MAKE CHANGE IN LIGHTS

Village Will Have Better Light
Longer Service and Still
Save Money

SUBMIT SIX PROPOSITIONS

Following the conference between J. H. McVey, member of the village board, of this place, and Vice President Monroe of the "Public Service Company in Chicago on the 9th of this month, in regard to the lighting system of our village, the company saw fit to send a couple of men here on Friday last, with a list of six propositions to submit to the board for their consideration.

The present system is made up of 53-60 candle power lamps for which we are paying $25 per lamp per year or a total of $1325 per year, this is under a contract with 4 years and 9 months longer to run. However the company has, through its representatives, expressed a willingness to exchange this present plan, with an elimination of the moonlight schedule, for any one of the six propositions, with the understanding that the contract will be extended ten years from the present time.

The propositions submitted are as follows:

(C. S. means center suspension.)

1.—8-250 c. p. lamps (down town) c. s. $38.60 per lamp per year and 45-60 c. p. bracket lamps at $17.50 per lamp per year. A total of $1095.30 or $223.70 per year less than at present.

2.—8-250 c. p. (down town) c. s. at $38.60 per lamp per year, and 45-100 c. p. bracket, $20.50 per lamp per year. A total amount of $1123.30 or a saving of $93.70 per year.

3.—11-100 c. p. (down town) c. s. $22.50 per lamp per year and 45-60 c. p. bracket $17.50 per lamp per year. A total of $1035 or a saving of $290 per year.

4.—11-100 c. p. (down town) c. s. $22.50 per lamp per year and 45-100 c. p. bracket at $20.50 per lamp per year. A total of $1170 or a saving of $155 per year.

5.—11-250 c. p. (down town) c. s. $38.60 per lamp per year and 45-100 c. p. bracket, at $20.50 per lamp per year, making a total of $1347.10 or $22.10 more than at present.

6.—11-250 c. p. (down town) c. s. $38.60 per lamp per year and 45-60 c. p. bracket, at $17.50 per lamp per year. Amounting to a total of $1212.10 per year or a saving of $112.90.

After carefully considering the six different propositions, all of which with the exception of number 5 means a saving to the village, the board decided to accept proposition 4, with amendments, and authorized the clerk to notify the company to that effect. By so doing the board has taken the step which adds three more lamps to our present service, increases those we now have from 60 to 100 c. p. gives us lights from dusk to midnight 365 nights in the year, and still saves money for the village. They decided not to accept the center suspension of the downtown lamps and have stipulated in their acceptance of the proposition that the entire 56 lamps must be from brackets, this brings the price of the entire 56 lamps down to $20.60 each per year. A total of $1148 or a saving of $177 per year. At our present rate we would pay $5293 for the remaining 42 years of our contract. Under the change we will pay $5463 for the same length of time, this shows a saving of $840 for the village by making the change at the present time and at the same time our lighting capacity is increased almost one-half besides the additional 3 lamps.

Had the board been satisfied with the present lights the proportionate reduction in rate would have been $395.50 per year or $1888.11 for the balance of the contract period. They however considered a better lighting as well as economy in making the decision.

While the changing of brackets and burners will consume some time yet this rate becomes effective as soon as the contract is signed, which will probably be about March first.

MRS. J. R. JONES PASSES AWAY AT HER HOME TUESDAY

Tuesday morning of this week, Mrs. Harriet Jones, wife of J. R. Jones, of this place passed into the great beyond at the hour of three o'clock. Mrs. Jones has been in very poor health for several years but was confined to her bed only a few weeks previous to her death, but her condition was such that her death had been hourly expected for several days.

The deceased was born in Orange county, Ohio, April 24, 1833 and was 77 years, 10 months and 4 days of age at the time of her death.

On the third of October 1867, she was united in marriage to J. R. Jones at Chagrin Falls, Ohio, and immediately after their marriage they came to Illinois to make their home on the Jones farm east of Leno Lake, where they lived until they came to this village to reside. She was a member of the Antioch M. E. church but her failing health has prevented her attendance at the church services for many years.

She is survived by her husband and two daughters, Mrs. Jay Haycock and Miss Lottie Jones of this place.

The funeral was held at the home this afternoon at 2 o'clock with interment in the Hillside cemetery.

Sudden Death of Mrs. Geo. Kapple

Last Thursday afternoon the Antioch relatives of Mrs. George Kapple of Grayslake were shocked to receive a message telling of her sudden and most unexpected death. Several months ago Mr. Kapple was stricken with paralysis and his wife who appeared to be in perfect health has been his constant attendant every since. She had not complained in anyway until late Thursday afternoon she spoke of being tired and laid down upon the couch to rest a few moments, suddenly she called to her daughter, who hurried to her side to behold her mother breathing her last. The funeral was held Sunday.

Mrs. Kapple was a sister of Mrs. Josephine Harden and J. W. VanDuzer of this place.

"GINGLES JINGLES"

NOT SO MUCH.

Do not think the world can't get along without you, do not think she'll cut out whirling when you blow; we'll admit you are a cog, in the wheel that makes us jog, you are needed but you're not the only show. Do not get it in your head that you must have you, or the things on this earth will go to smash; you are but a common skate, and regardless of your fate, you will never cause a universal crash. There will come a time when you'll live but a memory, when you'll live within the thoughts of but a few; and the rank and file will say, he has checked and gone his way—he was not so bad—we're sorry that he blew. Then you're blotted from the minds of men forever, they'll forget that you were molded for the place; things will move along the same, as when you were in the game, someone will step in and fill the vacant space. So forget the thought that you are all-important, things will move right on when you have pulled your freight; this old earth will never care, whether you are here or there—it will speed on never changing.

ORPET HELD TO GRAND JURY

Evidence Brought Out at Coroner's Inquest Carefully Considered

FIVE WITNESSES ON STAND

The coroner's jury deliberated only an hour and a half Monday before it decided to hold Wm. Orpet to the grand jury for the murder of Miss Marion Lambert.

"We had no doubt as to the advisability of holding him," explained Alexander Allen, "but we deliberated as carefully as though we actually trying him for life on whether we ought to hear more witnesses."

Five witnesses took the stand in the council room of the Lake Forest city hall, while a crowd that packed the place to the doors listened and gaped, hoping for a sight of the prisoner.

First there was Frank Lambert, father of Marion, who told of his suspicion that the girl had run away with Orpet when she disappeared.

Then Wm. Marshall told of finding the body in the snow in Helm's woods, of the footprints that led to the body, how Lambert sank to his knees, calling "Marion, my Marion," and he led the broken hearted man away after placing a handkerchief over the dead face.

Frank Petella, chauffeur on the Cyrus McCormick estate, was next called. He was questioned about the lessons kept in the greenhouse on the estate and asked whether young Orpet had slept in the garage the night before he met Marion—the night before he met her.

He said he didn't know. Some one might have come in—if he walked softly. But he hadn't seen Orpet that night, or for a month.

Edwin Owen Orpet, father of William, was called just before the noon recess and resumed the stand directly after court convened. He wished to tell all he knew, to prove what was so patent to himself—the innocence of his only son. Grave, serious and eager to help, he was as sad a figure as Frank Lambert.

Both men spoke almost inaudibly when first questioned and fairly had to be prodded into louder tones. It was as if the tragedy had hushed them into whispers.

The elder Orpet said he didn't know his son was keeping company with Marion Lambert and told of Lambert calling him on the phone and saying, "Your boy has got my girl."

"I said it was nonsense," he declared. "I said my boy was in Madison. I thought Mr. Lambert meant the two had eloped."

"Feb. 10, you received a letter from your son—a registered letter?" asked State's Attorney Dady.

"Yes, sir."

"Will you produce it this afternoon?"

"Yes, sir."

Attorney James Wilkerson, counsel for defense, then asked Coroner Taylor to ask for the other letters in the possession of the state. Prosecutor Dady offered to show the letters Orpet wrote to Marion if the defense would produce the letters from Marion to Orpet. The defense made no reply.

Waiter McGuire, chief of police of Lake Forest, was the last witness. Attorney L. P. Hanna, prompted by Wilkerson, asked him if he had not used "third degree" methods to get Orpet to make what statements he did. McGuire said he did not.

There was to have been a preliminary hearing immediately after the inquest, but because of the lateness of the hour this was postponed until next Monday.

The defense will plead not guilty and waive examination, as the hearing will be perfunctory.

The grand jury will meet on March 6, and State's Attorney Dady says he will do all he can to have an early trial.

The defense attorneys say they will attack the credibility of a number of state witnesses, but are keeping other plans secret.

Honesty in Man.
"What's your idea of an honest man?" "An honest man," replied Mr. Klump, "is one who likes the same music in private that he says he likes when his wife is giving a musical evening."—Philadelphia Record.

GRANT ADOPTS ONE HIGHWAY COM- MISSIONER PLAN

Voters of Grant township have elected to come under the single highway commissioner plan, this action being taken at a special election held in the town hall at Ingleside on Monday. The vote stood as follows.

FOR PROPOSITION—78

AGAINST PROPOSITION—13.

By taking this stand Grant township is the first township in Lake county to come under the single highway commissioner plan. All the other townships, including Waukegan, have three highway commissioners.

The residents of Grant intend to lose no time in putting the new rule into effect. Candidates for the position will be put into nomination at a caucus to be held in March. Their names will go on the regular town ticket at the election to be held in April.

The plan of having but one highway commissioner is a radical departure from the plan that has existed for many years but experts hold that it is productive of better results. In townships where the plan has been put into effect it is said the results have been all that could be desired.

Experts hold that one of the objections to the three highway commissioners plan is that the commissioners are scattered about different parts of the township and it is held that they may have a tendency to be partial to their own district.

With one commissioner elected from the township at large it is commended that he will devote his time to one community—much as another.

At any rate the p. plan of Grant are willing to give the new plan a trial to see how it will work out.

Kaphengst-Maaske Wedding

On Thursday, February 17, at 11 o'clock a. m., occurred the wedding of Miss Millie Ida Kaphengst and William A. Maaske at the Lutheran church at Bristol, Wis., Father Vos officiating.

The bride was attired in white satin with silk over lace, long white veil and wreath and carried yellow roses. She was attended by two bridesmaids, Miss Ella Kaphengst and Miss Hattie Maaske who wore yellow messaline gowns and carried beautiful bouquets of sweet peas. The best men were Mr. George Miller of Bristol and Mr. Henry Kaphengst of Lake Geneva.

The bridal party accompanied by their parents and Rev. and Mrs. Vos immediately after the ceremony went to the home of the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs. Otto Kaphengst at Salem, Wis.

A bounteous repast was served to about sixty guests. The afternoon and evening was spent in dancing and celebrating merrily the event. The happy couple received many useful and elegant presents and their many relatives and friends wish Mr. and Mrs. Maaske a long and prosperous life.

A. T. ABELSON DIES AT HOSPITAL IN CHICAGO OF TYPHOID FEVER

A telegram was received here on Tuesday announcing the death of A. T. Abelson, generally known as (Abe), occurred at the Garfield Park hospital, Chicago, at 4:30 a. m., Tuesday. He was well known in Antioch and in the surrounding lake region, where he has spent his summers for many years. He has a large number of friends in this locality to whom he had endeared himself by his genial happy disposition and his openhearted generosity.

He was taken sick the 22nd of December with a severe case of typhoid, from which to all appearances he had fully recovered. On the 15th of Feb., he was stricken with pleurisy, and returned to the hospital, where he passed away a week later, at the age of forty years. He was a member of the Local Order of Moose No. 706, of Waukegan. The funeral was held at 2 p. m., from funeral chapel North av., at Western, (today) Thursday by autos to Weldham.

Lake County Fair Changes Dates

President Charles H. Averill and director E. W. Butterfield were in Beloit, Wis., Tuesday where they attended a special meeting of the circuit of fairs which was formed last month at Woodstock, when the dates were set for the several county fairs in the circuit. Messrs. Averill and Butterfield represented the Lake county board of agriculture at the meeting.

At the meeting Tuesday it was found that the dates set at the Woodstock meeting would conflict with the Wisconsin fairs, especially at Janesville and Beloit. As some change in the dates had to be made the Libertyville men put up a fight for an earlier date and got it by consenting to double up with Belvidere. The new dates for the several fairs were set as follows: Beloit, Aug. 22-25; Libertyville and Belvidere, Aug. 29-Sept. 1; Woodstock, Sept. 5-8; Palestine, Sept. 12-15; Elkhorn, Sept. 19-22. This causes a break in the circuit which could not be avoided unless Lake county would be willing to set its dates before August 32 or later than Sept. 22, that is to begin or end the circuit, which the Libertyville officers would not consent to do.

England Superstitious.

It is a favorite superstition in England that the bacon of swine killed during the waning of the moon will waste away in the process of curing, much more than bacon hogs killed while the moon is growing. This superstition is akin to that which impresses upon farmers the necessity of planting root crops "in the dark of the moon."

HAVE ROSY CHEEKS AND FEEL FRESH AS A DAISY—TRY THIS!

Says glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast washes out poisons.

To see the tinge of healthy bloom in your face, to see your skin get clearer and clearer, to wake up without a headache, backache, coated tongue or a nasty breath, in fact to feel your best, day in and day out, just try inside-bathing every morning for one week.

Before breakfast each day, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it as a harmless means of washing from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will cost very little at your drug or general store, but is sufficient to demonstrate that just as soap and hot water cleanses, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the blood and internal organs. Those who are subject to constipation, bilious attacks, acid stomach, rheumatic twinges, also those whose skin is sallow and complexion pallid, are assured that one week of inside-bathing will have them both looking and feeling better in every way.—Adv.

In Other Words.

An Arkansas man who intended to take up a homestead claim in a neighboring state sought information in the matter from an Irish friend.

"I don't remember the exact wording of the law," said the Celt, "but I can give you the meaning of it all right. It's like this: The government of the United States is willing to bet ye 160 acres of land against fourteen dollars that ye can't live on it five years without starvin' to death."

Pills Relieved by First Application. Add card in to 1 day or 2 days. If not the overall remedy for all forms of illness. Druggists refund money if it fails. 50c.

MOTHER! LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE

If cross, feverish, constipated, give "California Syrup of Figs."

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish; stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftentimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask at the store for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Adv.

Sure Thing.

"CASCARETS" FOR LIVER, BOWELS

Get a 10-cent box now.

No odds how bad your liver, stomach or bowels; how much your head aches, how miserable and uncomfortable you are from constipation, indigestion, biliousness and sluggish bowels—you always get the desired results with Cascarets.

Don't let your stomach, liver and bowels make you miserable. Take Cascarets to-night; put an end to the headache, biliousness, dizziness, nervousness, sick, sour, gassy stomach, backache and all other distress; cleanse your inside organs of all the bile, gases and constipated matter which is producing the misery.

A 10-cent box means health, happiness and a clear head for months. No more days of gloom and distress if you will take a Cascaret now and then. All stores sell Cascarets. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a cleansing, too. Adv.

TAKE A GLASS OF SALTS WHEN BLADDER BOTHERS

Harmless to Flush Kidneys and Neutralize Irritating Acids—Splendid for the System.

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.—Adv.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 4 oz. of glycerine. Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the desired shade. Any color can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. It will gradually darken streaked, faded gray hair, and remove dandruff. It is excellent for falling hair and will make hair soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.—Adv.

THE EVIDENCE IN THE CASE

Results Following Settlement Show That Conditions in Western Canada Are Highly Satisfactory.

Until a few years ago Mr. Henry Lohmann lived at Ellingham, Ill. He thought he would better his condition in a new country, where he would have wider scope for his farming operations. It would not seem essential to refer to Mr. Lohmann, at this particular time, as of German blood, but for the fact that so many false statements have gone out as to ill treatment of Germans in Canada.

Writing from Willmott, Sask., under date of January 30, 1916, Mr. Lohmann says:

"We are perfectly satisfied in this country, and doing well up here."

"I bought a half section of land and took up a homestead, my three sons also took homesteads, two of them buying each 160 acres of land as well. I sold my homestead, and I and one of my sons own a threshing outfit."

"The crop this year was good; the oats went 80 to 90 bushels per acre, and wheat went 40 to 50 bushels and the price is fair."

Sam Morrow, of Millet, Alta., in writing to Mr. J. M. MacLachlan, Canadian government agent at Watertown, S. D., says: "I am well pleased with the country. The climate is better than I ever thought it could be so far north. Ideal climate for stock. I have some colts and cattle that have not been inside of a stable in four years. I consider this a fine country for mixed farming. I know of farmers around here who had 42 bushels of barley to the acre and 55 bushels of oats to the acre."

Jacob Goetz of Plapout, Sask., had 43 acres of wheat from which he got 1,200 bushels, and got an average of 93 bushels of oats to the acre.

Golden Prairie, Sask., is a district largely settled by South Dakotans. Horner Blakie is one of those. He says: "The crops of 1915 were immense."

Wheat in his locality went from 40 to 55 bushels per acre; oats about 50 bushels on an average. One hundred bushels of potatoes were grown on a quarter of an acre of land; twelve potatoes weighed 30 pounds, and come in fat. He raised excellent corn, and fattened hogs on it. He concludes an interesting letter by saying: "There are schools in every district. The people here are most all hustlers and are fast pushing to the front. When I first came up here on almost every half section stood a little 12x14 shack, now almost everyone has real modern houses and barns."

Some Southern Alberta yields for 1915:

I. H. Hooker, 82 acres, 3,820 bushels Marquis wheat. No. 1, 64 pounds per bushel.

I. L. Lee, 40 acres, stubble, 1,500 bushels; 40 acres summer fallow, 2,530 bushels.

Peter Brandon, 164 acres, 7,361 bushels Marquis wheat.

R. Marandi, 135 acres, 6,320 bushels, 64 pounds per bushel.

I. McReynolds, 45 acres, 1,676, stubble.

Olo Christoferson, 50 acres, 2,647 bushels.

Arthus Gavett, 165 acres wheat, 6,642 bushels; 30 acres oats, 2,000 bushels.

Robert Mathews, 46 acres wheat, 2,016 bushels; machine measure.

D. Dunbar, 130 acres wheat, 5,325 bushels.

Ingauld Hoppy, 80 acres wheat, 2,800 bushels, all stubble.

Louis Krast, 80 acres wheat, 4,000 bushels.

W. J. Pate, 26 acres wheat, 950 bushels.

W. Roeniche, 150 acres wheat, 5,337 bushels, 60 of this stubble.

J. C. McKinnon, 60 acres wheat, 2,536 bushels.

Gordon Swinehart, 30 acres wheat, 1,140 bushels.

Albert Hanson, 85 acres wheat, 3,750 bushels.

Elmer Hamm, 110 acres wheat, 5,168 bushels; 30 acres oats, 6,550 bushels.

John Larson, 80 acres wheat, 3,000 bushels; 30 acres oats, 2,000 bushels.

John Hecklin, 37 acres, 1,484 bushels.

Wm. Hecklin, 100 acres, 3,376, stubble and breaking.

O. Salisbury, 50 acres Marquis wheat, 1,600 bushels on breaking.—Advertisement.

The first Tommy Atkins, the name since applied to all privates in the British army, was gunner Thomas Atkins. Gunner Atkins, in the reign of George III, invented a pocket ledger which won tremendous popularity among the soldiers. The little book came to be known as a Tommy Atkins, and soon, since every private had one, the men were called by the same name.

The Change of Life is a most critical period of a woman's existence, and neglect of health at this time invites disease and pain. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Philadelphia, Pa.—"I started the Change of Life five years ago. I always had a headache and backache with bearing down pains and I would have heat flashes very bad at times with dizzy spells and nervous feelings. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I feel like a new person and am in better health and no more troubled with the aches and pains I had before I took your wonderful remedy. I recommend it to my friends for I cannot praise it enough."—Mrs. MARGARET GRASSMAN, 759 N. Ringgold St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Beverly, Mass.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for nervousness and dyspepsia, when I was going through the Change of Life. I found it very helpful and I have always spoken of it to other women who suffer as I did and have had them try it and they also have received good results from it."—Mrs. GEORGE A. DUNBAR, 17 Roundy St., Beverly, Mass.

Eric, Pa.—"I was in poor health when the Change of Life started with me and I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, or I think I should not have got over it as easy as I did. Even now if I do not feel good I take the Compound and it restores me in a short time. I will praise your remedies to every woman for it may help them as it has me."—Mrs. E. KISSLING, 931 East 24th St., Erie, Pa.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 24, 1916

From an inspired source comes the information that when President Wilson went to Philadelphia, three days after the sinking of the "Lusitania," and told of being "too proud to fight," he was outlining a policy personal to himself, not necessarily for the nation. This explanation emphasizes one of the chief defects in Mr. Wilson's character—a defect which his old associates at Princeton came to understand only too well. Mr. Wilson has always held that two separate codes of ethics may be maintained—one for an individual and another for an institution or a government. So long as a man holding such an opinion is merely a private citizen and is privileged to exercise only his personal code, no great harm may be done. But when he becomes a president—either of a university or of a republic, he is apt to confuse his two codes and to impose his personal code upon the institution or upon the country. That is exactly what took place at Princeton—where the results were not happy, to say the least. That is exactly what is taking place in the nation—where the results have proven disastrous. The remedy at Princeton was found in the retirement of the president of the university. The remedy in the nation will be similar.

No matter how he finally decides the controversy, Mr. Wilson is bound to be the loser in the contest over the New York city postoffice. If he yields to Tammy and appoints its man in the face of the protests of those who call themselves "the better element," he will meet a loss in prestige among his thick-and-thin supporters. He has already intimated his willingness to oblige Tammy in this matter and the outcry has been prolonged and bitter—even the reform Democratic mayor of New York joining in it. On the other hand, if he should not fail to appoint the Tammany man upon whom he has looked with favor, he will incur further enmity at the hands of the Murphy men and will be subject to the reproach that he lacked the nerve to go through with the business after he had once embarked upon it.

Why censure Mr. McAdoo because he has appointed five or six cousins, nephews and nieces to Federal office in and around New York? That is the well established custom of this administration. McAdoo himself the President's son-in-law. Bryan has two sons at the public crib. Secretary Wilson's daughter has had hers from the Federal treasury. While to enumerate the minor office-holders who have handed out some of the lesser things to their own kin would be to fill up a column of fine newspaper type. McAdoo may have been wrong in naming his relatives for office, but he was strictly in observance of the traditions of this administration.

Chairman McCombs says that the one-term plank in the Baltimore platform was "not a mandate." Certainly not. It was "mclashes to catch flies," if we may borrow the language of the most distinguished and the most destructive assailant of planks in the Baltimore platform.

Wilson's Mexican policy was once regarded by him as excellent political capital. He now finds that it is capital that produces no dividends.

Who Spoils the Children?

There was a discussion held recently among a crowd of men about the spoiling of children. Some of the men said it was the father's fault. "They give the boys about the same amount of time every day that it takes them to shave. If they took the job of father seriously and really put some time and thought on it, there would be a different story." But most of the fellows seemed to blame the mothers.

Hint for Mother.

A gale between two rooms has proved a blessing to one mother. It is fastened in the doorway between the nursery and mother's room. There are times when the mother likes to watch the children without being right among them. Often sewing or writing may be done more easily with the gate between the mother and the little ones.

The Heart of Night Wind

By VINGIE E. ROE

It breathes the spirit of the big pines, of the big Northwest, of the big people who are working there. Daily's lumber camp is a real one—the men and women there are living characters. If Ma Daily doesn't make you love her, little Siletz will. If you don't hate Hampden for his brutal passion, you will despise Poppy for her cunning, and as for Sandy, you will hardly know what to think of him.

Change of scene, fresh interest, the hearts of men and women opened to you, all are waiting for you in this splendid story.

HANDICRAFT FOR GIRLS

By DOROTHY PERKINS

(Copyright, by A. Neely Hall.)

A DRESSER SET IN CRETONNE.

The hatpin receptacle in Fig. 1 requires a long, slender box such as hatpins are sold in. Sew or glue the cover on the box, cut off the end so the box will be several inches shorter than the hatpins, and cover with cretonne.

Figures 2 and 3 show two dainty pin-cushions. The square one is made of a small box cover, filled with sawdust, with a covering of cretonne, fastened over the top.

The hanging pin-cushion (Fig. 3) requires two round pill boxes. Glue these together bottom to bottom, as shown in Fig. 4, then fill one at a time with sawdust, cover, and finish by sewing a band of cretonne about the edge of the boxes, and attaching a loop of ribbon to hang it by.

The glove box in Fig. 5 is made of a cracker box of the form shown in Fig. 6. First cut off the end flaps so they will be just long enough to turn down and fasten to the inside of the ends (see dotted lines in Fig. 6), and remove the flap on the lid. Cover the outside of the box and lid with cretonne first; then cut pieces of cardboard to fit the inside, bottom, ends and side; cover these with padding and then with silk (Fig. 7), and glue in place.

Get the cover to a shoe box for the brush and comb tray shown in Fig. 8. Reinforce the corners with pieces of cardboard folded and glued to them, as shown in Figs. 9 and 10. Then put on the cretonne covering. Cut one piece of the right size to fit the bottom of the cover and lap over the rim and on to the inside, then, after attaching this in place, cut a piece of cardboard to fit the bottom inside, cover it with cretonne (Fig. 7), and glue this covered piece to the inside of the cover. This completes the tray.

Figure 11 shows a dainty trinket chest with three drawers. After seeing how to construct it, you can make yours to contain as many drawers as you wish. Small cardboard boxes form the drawers (Fig. 12). You can get empty spool boxes at a dry goods store. Pile one upon another and figure out the dimensions for the chest. Then fold a piece of cardboard as shown in Fig. 13, to make a case of the right size, and after bringing the folded ends together, bind them with a strip of paper (Fig. 14). Next cut strips of cardboard for shelves, and fasten these between the ends of the case by running pins through into their ends, as shown in Fig. 14. When the shelves have been adjusted properly, cover the back, ends, top and bottom of the case with cretonne (Fig. 15), also the front of the drawer boxes (Fig. 15); and sew a fancywork ring to the center of the front of each drawer (Fig. 11) by which to open them.

SKIRT OF BLACK TAFFETA

The separate skirt of black taffeta remains among the most convenient of all items of the wardrobe. The model pictured here includes plainings and a double skirt effect, insuring the required fullness.

TAFFETA AFTERNOON GOWN

One of the prettiest offerings for the spring and summer is presented here in an afternoon or visiting toilette of taffeta. The wide skirt is box plaited and the novel short coat is worn over a vest of the silk.

THE MODE IN SPORTS SKIRTS

Striped and checked matinee divide honors with gaily colored cotton corduroys in smart sporta skirts for spring. The skirt shown above is in cream color, with stripes in tan and blue. Big pearl buttons provide an appropriate finishing touch for it.

Messrs. Schaffer and Gains of Grayslake called here Tuesday.

Wh might have proved to be quite a serious accident on Monday about 5 o'clock was averted by presence of mind and quick action by the two section hands that was running a hand car and making for the tool house when a south bound freight was bearing down on them. Seeing their danger they jumped and tried to upset the hand car off the track, but to late the train struck it sending it in the air and twisting it up considerably, but fortunately not hurting the two men.

CHAPTER XXIX—Continued.

"The decision does not lay in your hands, Doctor Boyd," drawled a nasal voice with an unbecoming sneer in it. It was clear-shaven old Joseph G. Clark, who was not disturbed, in so much as the parting of one hair, by all the adverse criticism of him which had filled column upon column of the daily press for the past few days. "The rector has never, in the history of Market Square church, been given the control of its finances. He has invariably been hired to preach the gospel."

Sargent, Cunningham, Manning, and even Van Ploon looked at Clark in surprise. He was not given to open reproach. Chisholm manifested no astonishment. He sat quietly in his chair, his fingers idly drumming on the edge of the table, but his mutton-chop beard was pink from the red-dealing of the skin beneath.

"The present rector of Market Square church means to have a voice in its deliberations so long as he is the rector!" announced that young man emphatically, and Jim Sargent looked up at him with a jerk of his head. Rev. Smith Boyd was pale this afternoon, but there was a something shining through his pallor which made the face alive; and the something was not temper. Rufus Manning, clasping his silvery beard with a firm grip, smiled encouragingly at the tall young orator. "I have said that I have, so far as I am concerned, relinquished the building of the cathedral," the rector went on. "For this there are two reasons. The first is that its building will bring us farther away from the very purpose for which the church was founded; the worship of God with an humble and a contrite heart! I am ready to confess that I found, on rigid self-analysis, my leading motive in urging the building of the new cathedral to have been vanity. I am also, ready to confess, on behalf of my congregation and vestry, that their leading motive was vanity!"

"You have no authority to speak for me," interrupted Chisholm, his mutton-chops now red.

"Splendor is no longer the exclusive property of religion," resumed the rector, paying no attention to the interruption. "If I thought, however, that the building of that cathedral would promote the spread of the gospel in a degree commensurate with the outlay, I would still be opposed to the erection of the building; for the money does not belong to us!"

"Go right on and develop our conscience," approved Manning, smiling up at the old, walnut-beamed ceiling with its carved cherub brackets.

"The money belongs to Veder court," declared the rector; "to the distorted moral cripples which Market Square church, through the accident of commerce, has taken under her wing. Gentlemen, in the recent revelations concerning the vast industrial interests of the world, I have seen the whole blackness of modern corporate methods; and Market Square church is a corporation! I wish to ask you, in how far the Market Square church has been swayed, in its commercial dealings, by moral considerations?"

He paused, and glanced from man to man of his vestry. Sargent and Manning, the former of whom knew his plans and the latter of whom had been waiting for them to mature, smiled at him in perfect accord. Nicholas Van Ploon sat quite placidly, with his hands folded over his creaseless vest. Willis Cunningham, stroking his sparse brown Vandyke, looked uncomfortable, as if he had suddenly been introduced into a rude brawl; but his eye roved occasionally to Nicholas Van Ploon, who was two generations ahead of him in the acquisition of wealth, by the brilliant process of allowing property to increase in valuation. Chisholm glared.

"You'll not find any money which is not tainted," snapped Joseph G. Clark, who regarded money in a strictly impersonal light. "The very dollar you have in your pocket may have come direct from a brothel."

"Or from Veder court," retorted the rector. "We have brothers there, though we do not officially know it. We have unions there; and from all these iniquities Market Square church reaps a profit! For the glory of God? I dare you, Joseph G. Clark, or W. T. Chisholm, to answer me that question. In the affirmative! No decent man would conduct the business we do, for the reason that it would sell his soul as a gentleman; and it is a shameful thing that a gentleman should have finer ethics than a Christian church!" In the beginning, I was a coward about this matter! It was because I wished to be rid of our responsibility in Veder court that I first urged the conversion of that property into a cathedral. We cannot rid ourselves of the responsibility of Veder court! If it were possible for a church to be sent to hell, Market Square church would be eternally damned if it took this added guilt upon it!"

"This talk is absurd," declared Chisholm. "The city has taken Veder court away from us."

"Only the property," quickly corrected Rufus Manning, turning to Chisholm with sharpness in his deep blue eyes. "If you will remember, I told you this same thing before Doctor Boyd came to us. I have waited ever since his arrival for him to develop to this point, and I wish to announce myself as solidly supporting his views."

"Your own will not bear inspection!" charged Clark, turning to Manning with a scowl.

"I'll range up at the judgment seat with you!" flamed Manning. "We're both old enough to think about that!"

Joseph G. Clark moved to his feet and, leaning across the table, shook a thin forefinger at Manning.

"I have been attacked enough on the point of my moral standing!" he declared, his high-pitched nasal voice quivering with an anger he had held below the explosive point during the most of his life. "I can stand the attacks of a sensational press, but when apostle criticism follows me into my own vestry, almost in the sacred shadow of the altar itself, I am compelled to protest! I wish to state to this vestry, once and for all, that my moral status is above reproach, and that my conduct has been such as to receive the commendation of my Maker! Because it has pleased Divine Providence to place in my hands the distribution of the grain of the fields, I am constantly subject to the attacks of envy and malice. It has gone so far that I, last night, received from Rev. Smith Boyd, a request to resign from this vestry!" He passed in triumph on that, as if he had made against Rev. Smith Boyd a charge of such ghastly infamy that the young rector must shrivel before his eyes.

"I have led a blameless life! I have never smoked nor drunk! I have paid every penny I ever owed and fulfilled every promise I ever made. I have obeyed the gospel and partaken of the sacraments, and the Divine Being has rewarded me abundantly! He has chosen me, because of my faithful stewardship, to gather the food of earth from its sources and feed it to the mouths of the hungry; and I shall not depart from my stewardship in this church, because I am here, as I am everywhere, by the will of God!"

Perhaps W. T. Chisholm was not shocked by this blasphemy, but the clamor of it set on every other face, even on that of Nicholas Van Ploon, who was compelled to dig deep to find his ethics.

"You infernal old thief!" wondered Manning, recovering from his amazement. "Was it Divine Providence which directed you to devise the scheme whereby the railroads paid you two dollars rebate on every car of wheat you shipped, and a dollar bonus on every car of wheat your competitors shipped? I could give you a string of sins as long as the catechism, and you dare not deny one of them, because I can prove them on you! And yet you have the effrontery to say that a Divine Providence would establish you in your monopoly, by such secondarily means as you have risen to become the greatest dispenser of self-advertising charities in the world! You propose to ride into heaven on your universities and your libraries, and on the fact that you never smoked nor drank nor swore nor gambled; but when you come face to face with this horrible new god you have created, a deity who would permit you to attain wealth by the vile methods you have used, you will find him with a pitchfork in his hands! I am glad that Doctor Boyd, though knowing your vindictive record, has had bravery enough to demand your resignation from this vestry! I hope he receives it!"

Joseph G. Clark had remained standing, and his head shook, as with palsy, while he listened to the charge of Manning. He was a very old man, and it had been quite necessary for him to restrain his passions throughout his life.

"You will go first!" he shouted at Manning. "I am impregnable; but you have no business on this vestry! You can be removed at any time as examination is ordered, for I have heard you, we have all heard you, deny the immaculate conception, and thereby the divinity of Christ, in whom alone there is salvation!"

A hush like death fell on the vestry. Rev. Smith Boyd was the first to break the ghastly silence.

"Gentlemen," said he, "I do not think that we are in a mood today for further discussion. I suggest that we adjourn."

His voice seemed to distract the attention of Clark from Manning, in whom he had been glowering. He turned on Rev. Smith Boyd the reminder of the wrath which marked his first break into senility.

"As for you!" he snarled, "you will keep your fingers out of matters which do not concern you! You were hired to preach the gospel, and you will confine your attention to that occupation, preaching just what you find sanctioned in this book; nothing more, nothing less!" and taking a small volume which lay on the table, he tossed it in front of Rev. Smith Boyd.

It was the Book of Common Prayer, containing, in the last pages, the articles of Faith.

Clark seized his hat and coat, and strode out of the door, followed by the red-faced Chisholm, who had also been asked to resign. Nicholas Van Ploon rose, and shook hands with Rev. Smith Boyd.

"Sargent has told me about your plan for the new tenements," he stated. "I am in favor of buying the property."

"We'll swing it for you, Boyd," promised Jim Sargent. "I've been talking with some of the other members, and they seem to favor the idea that the new Veder court will be a great monument. There'll be no such magnificent charity in the world, and no such impressive sacrifice as giving up that cathedral! I think Cunningham will be with us, when it comes to a vote."

"Certainly," interposed Nicholas Van Ploon. "We don't need to make any profit from those tenements. The normal increase in ground value will be enough."

"Yes," said Cunningham slowly. "I am heartily in favor of the proposition."

"Coming along, doctor?" invited Manning, going for his coat and hat.

"No, I think not," decided Rev. Smith Boyd quietly.

He was sitting at the edge of the table facing the Good Shepherd, at the edge of whose robe still sparkled crystalline light, and in his two hands he thoughtfully held the Book of Common Prayer.

CHAPTER XXX.

Hand in Hand.

Rev. Smith Boyd walked slowly out into the dim church, with the little volume in his hand. The afternoon sun had sunk so low that the illumination from the stained-glass windows was cut off by the near buildings, and the patches of ruby and of sapphire, of emerald and of topaz, glowed now near the tops of the slender columns, or mellowed the dusky spaces up amid the arches.

It was hushed and silent there, deserted, and far from the thoughts of men. The young rector walked slowly up the aisle to a pew in the corner near the main entrance, and sat down, still with the little Book of Common Prayer in his hand, and, in the book, the Articles of Religion. From them alone must he preach; nothing more and nothing less. That was the duty for which he was hired. His own mind, his own intelligence, the reason and the spirit and the soul which God had given him were for no other use than the clever support of the things which were printed here. And who had formulated these articles? Men; men like himself.

Rev. Smith Boyd suddenly made the discovery that he was not preaching God! He was preaching the church and its creed!

Startled, now, he went through the thirty-nine Articles of Religion, one by one, slowly, thoughtfully, and with a quickened conscience. Reason knocked at the door of Faith, and entered; but it did not drive out Faith. They sat side by side, but each gave something to the other. No, rather, Reason stripped the mask from Faith, tore away the disguising cloak, and displayed her in all her simple beauty, sweet and gentle and helpful. What was the faith he had been called upon to teach? Faith in the thirty-nine Articles of Religion! This had been cleverly substituted by the organizers of an easy profession, for faith in God, which latter was too simple of comprehension for the purposes of any organization.

For a long time Rev. Smith Boyd sat in the corner pew, and when he had closed the book, all that had been behind the wall of his mind came out, and was sorted into heaps, and the bad discarded and the good retained. He found a wonderful relief in that. He had lived with a secret clamor in his heart, hidden even from himself, and now that he had opened the door, he felt free. Above him, around him, within him, was the presence of God; infinite, tender, easy of understanding; and from that God, his God, the one which should walk with him through life his friend and comforter and counselor, he stripped every shred of pretense and worthless form and useless ceremony!

"I believe in God the Creator; the Maker of my conscience; my Friend and Father." The creed of Gail!

For a moment the rector stood, tall and erect, then he stretched forth his arms:

"I know that my Redeemer liveth!" he said, and sank to his knees.

Two high points he had kept in his faith, points never to be shaken; the existence of his creator, his mercy and his love, and the divinity of his son, who died, was crucified and buried, and on the third day arose to ascend unto heaven. Reason could not destroy that etched in a man born to the necessity of faith! Man must believe some one thing. If it was as easy, as he had once set forth, to believe in the biblical account of the creation of the world as to believe in a pre-existent chaos, out of which evolved the spirit of life, and all its marvels of growing trees and flying birds and reasoning men, it was as easy to go one step farther, and add the son to the father, and to the holy ghost! Even chaos must have been created!

Fully satisfied, Rev. Smith Boyd walked into the vestry, and wrote his resignation from the rectorship of Market Square church, for he could no longer teach, and preach, faith—in the thirty-nine articles of religion! With his grasp he had held a position of wealth, of power, of fame! He scarcely considered their loss; and in the ease with which he relinquished them, he knew that he was self-absorbed from the charge of using his conscience as a ladder of ambition! If personal vanity had entered into his desire to build the new cathedral, it had been incidental, not fundamental. It made him profoundly happy to know this with positiveness.

He called up the house of Jim Sargent, and asked for Gail.

"Come over," he invited her. "I want to see you very much. I'm in the church. Come in through the vestry."

"All right," was the cheerful reply.

"I'll be there in a minute."

He had been very shy! He was tremendously pleased with himself! He had kept out of his voice all the longing, and all the exultation, and all the love! He would not trust even one vibration of his secret to a cold telephone wire!

He set the door of the vestry open wide. Within the church, the organist had conquered that baffling run in the mighty prelude of Bach, and the great dim spaces up amid the arches were pulsing in ecstasy with the tremendous harmony. Outside, upon the background of the celestial strain, there rose a fluttering, a twittering, a cooing. The doves of spring had returned to the vestry yard.

Just a moment and Gail appeared, poised in the doorway, with a slimy pink scarf about her shoulders, a simple frock of delicate gray upon her slender figure, her brown hair waving about her oval face, a faint blush upon her cheeks, her brown eyes sparkling, her red lips smiling up at him.

He had intended to tell her much, but instead, he folded her in his arms, and she nestled there, content. For a long, happy moment they stood, lost to the world of thought; and then she looked up at him, and laughed.

"I know it from your voice," she said.

He laughed with her; then he grew grave, but there was the light of the great happiness in his gravity.

"I have resigned," he told her.

That was a part of what she had known.

"And not for me!" she exulted. It was not a question. She saw that in him was no doubt, no quandary, no struggle between faith and disbelief.

"I see my way clearly," he smiled down at her; "and there are no thorns to cut for me. I shall never change."

"And we shall walk hand in hand about the greatest work to the world," she softly reminded him, and there were tears in her eyes. "But what work shall that be, Ted?" She looked up at him for guidance, now.

"To shed into other lives some of the beauty which blossoms in our own," he replied, walking with her into the great dim nave, where the shadows still quivered with the under-echoes of the mighty Bach prelude. "I have been thinking much of the many things you have said to me," he told her, "and particularly of the need, not for a new religion, but for a re-birth of the old; that same new impulse towards the better and the higher life which Christ brought into the world. I have been thinking on the mission of him, and it was the very mission to the need of which you have held so firmly. He came to clear away the thorns of creed which had grown up between the human heart and God! The brambles have grown again. The time is almost ripe, Gail, for a new quickening of the spirit; for the second coming."

She glanced at him, startled.

"For a new voice in the wilderness," she wondered.

"Not yet," he answered. "We have signs in the hearts of men, for there is a great awakening of the public conscience throughout the world; but before the day of harvest arrives, we must have a sign in the sky. No great spiritual revival has ever swept the world without its attendant supernatural phenomena, for mysticism is a part of religion, and will be to the end of time. Reason, by the very nature of itself, realizes its own limitations, and demands something beyond its understanding upon which to base its faith. It is the need of faith which distinguishes the soul from the mind."

"A sign," mused Gail, her eyes alight with the majesty of the thought.

"It will come," he assured her, with the calm presence of prophecy itself. "As no great spiritual revival has ever swept the world without its attendant supernatural phenomena, so no great spiritual revival has ever swept the world without its concrete symbol which men might wear upon their breasts. The cross! What shall be its successor? A ball of fire in the sky? Who knows! If that symbol of man's spiritual rejuvenation, of his renewed nearness to God, were, in reality, a ball of fire, Gail, I would hold it up in the sight of all mankind, though it shriveled my arm!"

The thin-treble note stole out of the organ loft, pulsing its timid way among the high, dim arches, as if seeking a lodgment where it might fasten its tiny thread of harmony, and grow into a song of new glory, the glory which had been born that day in the two earnest hearts beneath the avenue of slender columns. The soft light from one of the clerestory windows flooded in on the compassionate son of man above the altar. The very air seemed to vibrate with the new inspiration which had been voiced in the old Market Square church. Gail gazed up at Smith Boyd, with the first content her heart had ever known; content in which there was both earnestness and serenity, to replace all her groping. He met her gaze with eyes in which there glowed the endless love which it is beyond the power of speech to tell. There was a moment of ecstasy, of complete understanding, of the perfect unity which should last throughout their lives. In that harmony, they walked from the canopy of dim arches, out through the vestry, and beneath the door above which perched the two gray doves cooing. For an instant Gail looked back into the solemn depths, and a wistfulness came into her eyes.

"The ball of fire," she mused. "When shall we see it in the sky?"

THE END.

Obstinate Man Determined Not to Admit That the Dictagraph Had Helped Him.

EVIDENTLY A HOPELESS CASE

A certain young man of Columbus who is so hard of hearing that he oftentimes carries a little dictagraph instrument with him to help him follow the conversation of his friends, was among some of his rural relatives last week. There happened to be a farmer in the vicinity who had not heard a word for years. The Columbus man was introduced to him and referred to his little instrument which helped deaf persons, and offered to demonstrate it to him.

"I can't hear through these things. I have tried them all and none of them are any good," he said.

"Put this up to your ear and try it, anyhow," suggested the visitor. The farmer hesitated a while and then put one end of the instrument to his ear. To the surprise of the Columbus man the deaf farmer, replied, when asked in a tone hardly above a whisper, "Can you hear what I say?"

"No, I can't hear a word. These things don't do me any good."

"Would you acknowledge it if it would help you?" was then asked him in a still lower tone of voice, and the answer came back promptly: "Certainly I would, but I can't hear a word you say."

The Columbus man put the instrument back in his pocket and said to his rural friend, "A hopeless case."—Columbus Dispatch.

Flying War Horse.

A correspondent of the Milan "Corriere della Sera" reports the following story:

"An Italian lieutenant recently rode through one of the villages on the Isonzo front. He dismounted before the temporary quarters of the commander of his regiment and tied his horse to a tree. When he entered the house he heard the humming pulse of a large Austrian shell and a moment later a terrible explosion followed. The shell had struck a small building on the opposite side of the street. An immense cloud of smoke and dust rose and when it disappeared the horse of the officer was gone.

"The air pressure caused by the explosion had lifted the animal from the ground and thrown it on the flat roof of a nearby house, where it was found almost unharmed. It was no easy job to get the horse to the street again, as this could only be accomplished with the aid of a large crane."

Origin of Grain as Measure.

The grain, as a measure of weight, has its name from being originally the weight of a grain of wheat. A statute passed in England in 1266 ordained that 32 grains of wheat, taken from the middle of the ear and well dried, should make a pennyweight; 12 of which should make an ounce, while 12 ounces were to make a pound.

The pound, therefore, consisted of 7,680 grains. But several centuries later the pennyweight was divided into 24 grains, which makes the troy pound 5,760 grains. The pennyweight was the exact weight of a silver penny. The standard grain was prescribed by act of parliament in the reign of George IV.

Genie Field's Humor.

Engene Field often likened a game of whist in the evening, when he could "drop in" and was not "specially invited." One Sunday night when leaving the house of a friend he called out loudly, for the benefit of the rigid church members connected with the McCormick Theological seminary, across the street: "No, Charles Henry, I shall never play poker with you again on Sunday night," much to the chagrin of Charles Henry, a model man who never indulged in poker on Sunday or any other night.

LIFE'S LITTLE JESTS

Unquestioning Support.
"Hiram," said Mrs. Cornosesi, "how do you stand on the question of votes for women? I've decided I'm in favor of it."

"Well," replied her husband, "believe me I'm tired and hungry and you have exclusive control of the meat and potatoes, not to mention the coffee and pies, I'm willing to cut the argument short and tell you that anything you say goes with me."

A Mere Detail.
"Let me see," said the judge. "I know you. Are not you the man who was married in a cage of man-eating lions?"
"Yes, your honor," replied the culprit. "I'm the man."
"Exciting, wasn't it?" continued the justice.
"Well," said the man judicially, "it was then; it wouldn't be now."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Her Idea.
"I think I'd like to join the Old Scouts. They must have lots of fun. Learn all about woodcraft, I understand."
"And what is your idea of woodcraft?"
"Oh, getting practice in toasting marshmallows over a camp fire and learning how to gather chewing gum from the original tree."

Endless Procession.
"Here's a man says the devil is smarter than all of humanity put together."
"A veritable Goliath, oh?"
"Just so."
"Well, men are certainly brave. Plenty of young fellows are willing to tackle him single handed."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

NOT YET.

"I didn't think you'd refuse me after saying so often that you'd share your last dollar with me."
"And I will; but I'm not down to my last dollar yet."

Impacts.
How oft our fond intentions flit
And lead us to a slump;
How oft we try to make a hit
And only get a bump!

India's Wealth Increasing.
For several years India has steadily increased its production of coal, iron and copper.

Man-Talk to Men

By J. R. HAMILTON

Former Advertising Manager of Wanamaker's, Philadelphia

Since the beginning of organized society everything without a name has ended with a question mark. The very reason why marriage itself has been able to maintain so much sentiment amongst civilized races is that it gave to our children a name.

There is no virtue in a name itself, except that it throws the light of investigation upon whatever the name stands for.

Now the object of this article is simply to get you to remember the names of the articles you buy or at least the names of the people you buy them from. Because that is the only way of increasing good business methods in this city.

In this last twenty years business men have discovered a new method of establishing a name. They do it through advertising.

Now again there is no special virtue in advertising except that it does two things. First, it sells goods cheaper, because it sells more of them. And, second, it shortens the time that it formerly took to establish a name. There are just as honest business men who do not advertise as there are who do. That is not the point. The point is that they are not as good business men and that you do not have any way of telling whether they are honest or not.

Now there are a great many advertisers in this paper today and every day who have established for themselves, or for their products, a good name. There is a lifetime of hard effort attached to the signature of many of these ads, so you cannot possibly do better than to read this advertising for whatever you wish to buy.

When a man or a product has an established name, you know where to go, if the quality does not live up to the guaranty.

So turn to the advertising in this paper today; read it, buy from it, and you will know that if at any time the thing you buy isn't right, the man with a name will make it right.

A Curious "Risk."
Nearly every business or occupation contributes bits of specialized knowledge to the common fund. It is a strike most people as a curious piece of information that plate glass insurance companies class windows with black lettering on them as "extra hazardous" risks. The explanation given is that a black surface absorbs the sun's rays. By this means it pointed out, an unequal expansion produced throughout the plate, and under the influence of a sudden rise in cold or any other quick change of temperature a strain is developed which may break the glass.

Much the Same Principle.
"These South Sea Islanders are a queer lot. They have many things which are taboo, mustn't be touched. I see nothing strange about that. It is the same principle on which we carefully plant a lot of grass for people to keep off of."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Ominous.
"What did the chief of the cannibal tribe say when the pretty girl missionaries were brought into his presence?" "Smacked his lips and said, 'Some chickens.'"—Baltimore American.
